The Raimbault family goes back through nine generations of winemaking at Sury-en-Vaux, beginning with Pierre Alexandre in the early 18th century. The vineyards now spread to both sides of the fine Loire River. Philippe Raimbault's exclusive "Les Godons" vineyard in Sancerre forms a natural south-facing amphitheatre. The steep slopes offer protection from the wind and are well exposed to the sun. "Apud Sariaum" was the name of the ancient village of Sury-en-Vaux until the 20th century. The vines for this cuvée lie close to the village. "Les Chasseignes" vineyard slopes are steep providing optimum exposure on the limestone soil. This superb wine is vinified in oak barrels.

The soil around Sury is part of a geological stratum formed during the second era of the Jurassic period. Fossils of sea creatures over 130 million years old abound in the soil and are regularly excavated. A fine display is on exhibition at the cellars. The Pouilly Fumé wines come from "La Montée des Lumeaux" vineyard of limestone-clay soils around the village of Saint-Martin-sur-Nohain. The Côteaux de Saint-Père, overlooking the Loire and the town of Cosne, is the site of his Côteaux du Giennois vineyards. As with Pouilly Fumé and Sancerre, the white is from 100% Sauvignon Blanc grapes. The red Côteaux du Giennois Rouge is a delightful blend of 80% Pinot Noir and 20% Gamay grape varieties.
